

MEET ROBIN & ROSIE

Last year, a call was received at the Sanctuary from a lady asking us to take two small ponies as she was unable to care for them anymore for a variety of reasons. We get many calls and emails every day like this call and are unable to help everyone as we just don't have the room or resources.

But there was something about these two adorable little ponies that stood out. Robin is slightly lighter in colour than Rosie and is on the right of this picture.

He is blind in both eyes and relies totally on Rosie his constant companion as his look out. They are inseparable and it only takes Robin to make a small whinny and she is at his side in a moment. Both are very calm and quiet ponies, a pleasure to look after. At the moment they are up at Southcott enjoying the summer grazing, but when the cold weather approaches they will be brought back and given a warm stable.
